It is through these constraints on government action that private economic actors can reduce the risks of international trade and profit from their investments in trade-specific assets. Rather than quibble with motives, however, we will set aside the partisan issues. Globalization, in other words, would create levels of prosperity that would make communism obsolete and war prohibitively expensive. The WTO system rests on the ideal of free trade, but as a practical arrangement among nations, the important 33 point is to follow certain rules about trade policy.

At the same time, it is important to recognize that there are other factors besides. Who's Afraid of the WTO? of the attention-grabbing demonstrations, there is no indication that the true propelling forces of globalization— competition, communications, technology—will abate simply because the world saw the WTO stumble through a poorly planned ministerial meeting. While the result is often one of increased specialization within industrial sectors, in which displaced production and workers tend to be reallocated within the firm or industry, there have been pressures on less competitive industries in many countries to downsize or even close their operations.
